

Therapeutic Shamanism

Practitioner Training Guidelines

Minimum components...

- 12 Foundation weekends (24 days)
- 2 Practitioner Training weekends (4 days)
- evidence of extra work (200 points)
- self-assessment
- having your work observed and assessed

Points

Show evidence of extra work. The total points needed will be 200.

Points are calculated as...

- 30 minutes of work or training (weekends count as 12 hours, so 24 points)
- one A4 side of writing, or equivalent.
- one (short) journey, and write up.

At least 100 of the points must come from journeys and their write ups.

Points can include...

1. journeying journal (makes up a minimum of 100 points)
2. reflective journal on the weekends attended
3. following the suggested activities after Therapeutic Shamanism weekends (needs evidence!)
4. book summaries/reviews
5. case studies (client work)
6. developing tools (painting drum, making a rattle, staff etc)
7. researching/developing crystals/flowers etc shamanically (needs evidence!)
8. essays/articles
9. supervision sessions (count as double points)
10. attending extra therapeutic shamanism courses/weekends (in addition to those required)
11. running beginners classes, or helping on other weekends
12. follow the 'year of living shamanically' – diary/journal (needs evidence!)
13. projects
14. other things!

Having work observed and assessed. This means by...

1. tutor(s)
2. self
3. and possibly by peers

Extra finances and timing

1. generally, minimum of 2 years
2. £200 (minimum). This is to
 - cover tutorial/supervision sessions at £25 an hour (or part of an hour, at that hourly rate)
 - cover my time in reading through your work, and giving you feedback.

To book onto the Practitioner Training, you need to book in for an initial supervision session. This can be a phone or a face-to-face session. It is an hour long, and will explore how we can tailor your training to your needs.

As a member of the Practitioner Training, you get first priority on any Foundation weekends you wish to attend.
